Held in the Council Chamber, Civic House, Trafalgar Street, Nelson

On Monday 10 September 2012, commencing at 9.02am

Present: His Worship the Mayor (A Miccio), Councillors I Barker, A Boswijk, R Copeland, E Davy, K Fulton, P Rainey, R Reese, D Shaw and M Ward

In Attendance: Acting Executive Manager Community Services (R Ball), Executive Manager Kaihautū/Community Relations (G Mullen), Manager Community Development (K Inwood), Social Development Advisor (N Mercer), and Administration Adviser (E-J Ryan)

Apologies: Were received and accepted from Councillors G Collingwood, P Matheson and J Rackley

1. Conflicts of Interest

His Worship the Mayor requested that Councillors declare any conflicts of interest as they arose over the course of the meeting.

2. Hearing of Community Contract Applications

Document number 1348582, agenda pages 1-2, and separate folders refer.

His Worship the Mayor advised that a substantial amount of this year's Community Assistance Fund was already tagged to multi-year community contracts awarded through last year's Community Assistance Funding hearing. He said that the amount available to be awarded both as community contracts and one off grants was extremely oversubscribed.

2.1 Youth and Community Facility Trust (The New Hub)

Stephen Stiles, Manager of The New Hub, presented the application, along with two youth workers from The New Hub. Mr Stiles said that the application focused on finding solutions for youth homelessness and working with young people outside formal education, who were looking for training or employment opportunities. The youth workers, Jay and Nicole, spoke about their experiences in assisting young people in these areas.

In response to a question, Mr Stiles confirmed that The New Hub received referrals from Child, Youth and Family. He added that The New Hub was working towards a model of not relying on any one source of funding, and had applied for other sources of funding as well. In response to another question, he spoke about the differences between The New Hub's recreation services, and its Youth Transition services.

2.2 Cawthron Institute

Deanna Clement gave a PowerPoint presentation (1378262) and said that the application was to develop an interactive website regarding the marine environment. She said that the Tasman Bay/Marlborough Sounds region was an important area for marine wildlife, and that the website would allow members of the public both to seek information, and to enter information relating to sightings of particular marine creatures.

In response to a question, Ms Clement confirmed that Cawthron Institute was applying for funding from Tasman District Council and Marlborough District Council, as well as from the Ministry for the Environment. She added that the Department of Conservation had offered support in kind, such as the provision of information and the use of equipment.

2.3 Nelson Women's and Children's Refuge

Trudie Brand and Reni Gargiulo spoke to the application, and said that Nelson Women's and Children's Refuge had recently been awarded funding from different sources. They spoke about the recent increase in levels of family violence reported to the Police, and the corresponding increase in service that their organisation had provided as a result. They also spoke about education programmes that were being conducted, particularly for year 12 and 13 girls, and the growing awareness that family violence was unacceptable.

In response to a question, Ms Brand and Ms Gargiulo said that Nelson Women's and Children's Refuge worked with the Nelson Tasman Housing Trust. They said that, while they supported and worked collaboratively with agencies addressing youth homelessness, the focus of their services was on the family unit.

2.4 Bridge Valley Adventure Centre

Hamish Flynn gave a PowerPoint presentation in support of the application (1378272). He said that the application focused on developing a Young Leaders programme, working in conjunction with the Sir Peter Blake Trust. He added that the programme had an essential teamwork component.

In response to a question, Mr Flynn confirmed that Bridge Valley Adventure Centre had also approached Tasman District Council for funding.

2.5 Ngāti Rārua Ātiawa Iwi Trust

Mere Wetere gave a PowerPoint presentation (1378258) and explained that the Toi Ora Maori Arts Festival was being held as part of the Nelson Arts Festival, and would showcase Maori art from the top of the South Island. She spoke about the different events that were planned for the Toi Ora festival, and said that in future years it was hoped that Toi Ora would grow into a standalone festival.

In response to a question, Ms Wetere explained that Toi Ora had received in-kind support from the Nelson City Council Festivals team, and had received sponsorship and funding from other sources. In response to a further question, Ms Wetere explained that the Ngāti Rārua Ātiawa Iwi Trust was acting as an umbrella organisation for the Toi Ora festival this year, but that it was anticipated that a separate trust would be set up to administer the Toi Ora festival in future years.

2.6 Nelson's Neighbourhood Centre

Philip Chapman spoke about the work of Nelson's Neighbourhood Centre, and said that it was dedicated to working with men, particularly with regards to family break-up, separation coaching and providing support and counselling for men who had been the victims of sexual abuse. He added that he was working with Nelson Marlborough Institute of Technology to increase the number of men enrolling in social work and counselling courses, was involved with running the Men's Shed, and was also looking to increase male participation in adult education courses.

In response to a question, Mr Chapman explained that Nelson's Neighbourhood Centre did not currently hold any funding contracts, and had limited resources.

2.7 Nelson Multicultural Council

Evey McAuliffe spoke about the work of the Nelson Multicultural Council. She said that the Nelson Multicultural Council currently held a community contract, but that the present application was for two specific projects, including holding Race Unity Day. Ms McAuliffe said that Race Unity Day was an important event for empowering different groups within Nelson's community by creating a sense of pride.

In response to a question, Ms McAuliffe explained that the Nelson Multicultural Council had contracted an events management team to run the last Race Unity Day, and would generally be happy for organisation of the event to be handed to someone else, as long as the Multicultural Council was still involved in the event.

2.8 Victory Community Health Centre

Kindra Douglas spoke about the Victory Community Health Centre's Community Garden, and showed a series of photographs (1378282). She said that the Garden was a learning environment as well as a space to grow food, and she emphasised the role of the community garden in growing a sense of community pride.

In response to questions, Ms Douglas explained that the garden was open to all members of the community, regardless of whether they lived in the Victory area. She added that 'coaches' were available to assist members of the public with advice regarding their home gardens.

Attendance: The meeting adjourned for morning tea, from 10.25am to 10.42am.

2.9 Richmond Group Riding for the Disabled Incorporated

Jemma Omlo explained that the application was for a small amount, to provide for a portable fencing system so that the group could participate in events such as A&P Shows and school fairs. She added that the group serviced a number of schools in the Nelson Tasman Region, and was prepared to lend or hire the portable fencing system out to other Riding for the Disabled groups.

2.10 Hearing Association Nelson Incorporated

Bridget Thompson presented the application, and explained that hearing impairment affected over 16% of the community. She said that the application was to purchase five listening devices for front-line staff, and that the hospital chaplain would be issued with one of the devices, to showcase the device and educate a wide range of users as to how helpful it is. She said that she hoped that gradually many organisations and businesses within the community would purchase their own devices to assist their customers to hear important information.

2.11 Kahurangi Employment Trust

Attendance: Councillor Boswijk declared that, along with Councillor Davy, she was a Councillor trustee on the Kahurangi Employment Trust.

Roger Thorn presented the application. He said that Kahurangi Employment Trust disagreed with the staff rating the application had received, and explained that the way its previous central Government contract had been structured had led to the Trust's financial difficulties.

Mr Thorn said that the Kahurangi Employment Trust currently held the Tidytown contract with Council, under which graffiti was removed and the central city was cleared of rubbish. He said that the Trust had previously held a tree-planting contract with Council, but that it had not been awarded the contract this year.

In response to a question, Mr Thorn said that a business mentor from the Nelson Tasman Business Trust was currently working with Kahurangi Employment Trust. He added that a corporate sponsor had also been secured to benefit the Nelson Marlborough Institute of Technology's Artist-in-Residence programme, run out of the Refinery Gallery.

A copy of Mr Thorn's notes was tabled (1379763).

2.12 Kidpower Teenpower Fullpower Trust

Nettie Stow spoke about the work of the Kidpower Teenpower Fullpower Trust, and said that the Trust aimed to equip children and teenagers with the skills needed to keep themselves safe, by teaching them how to set boundaries in relationships, and how to resolve conflict without aggression. She emphasised the importance of teaching such life skills, and said that the Trust focused on primary prevention.

In response to a question, Ms Stow explained that the Trust had been working a lot in Christchurch recently, and had also expanded to Auckland. She added that the trust collaborated with many other organisations through a referral system.

2.13 Tautoko (Neighbourhood Connections)

Marie Calderbank presented the application, along with Jill Hansell from Autism New Zealand. They spoke about the difficulties faced by young people with Aspergers or Autism Spectrum Disorders and the work that the organisation carried out to help teach life skills and social skills to alleviate the isolation that many with such disorders experienced. They added that, in many cases, people with Aspergers Syndrome fell outside the criteria for disability assistance.

In response to a question, Ms Calderbank explained that the organisation focused on a transition service for school leavers, and supported different people to a variety of different levels. In response to a further question, Ms Hansell explained that there was a large waiting list for their services, and that volunteer assistance was not necessarily appropriate, as specialist knowledge was required.

2.14 House 44 South East Stoke Incorporated

Jane Worthington, Al Topia, John Wormsley and Antonia Fox presented the application. They explained that the application focused on supporting the growing 'Tane' mens group, and extending the youth activity programmes in the evenings and through the school holidays, and tabled a document (1379774).

In response to a question, Ms Worthington explained that House 44 collaborated with the Youth Council via Solomon Rahui, of Presbyterian Support in Stoke. Mr Topia also explained that he was intending to collaborate with The Male Room as the Tane Group expanded. It was also noted that the House 44 youth activity programmes represented the largest activity for Stoke youth outside of organised or College sport.

2.15 Special Olympics Nelson

Margaret Robb presented the application and explained that the Special Olympics provided year-around training and competition in nine Olympic sports for children and adults with intellectual disabilities. She explained the annual funding that was required, and said that the focus of the application was on hiring swimming pool time.

In response to a question, Ms Robb explained that there was no District Health Board funding available for the Special Olympics, and that Tasman District Council had declined a similar application for funding.

2.16 Youth Nelson

Maree Shalders, along with students Jo and Kimiora, presented the application. Jo and Kimiora explained that the programme focused on teaching Kapa Haka and Te Reo skills, and how connecting with Maori culture gave students increased knowledge, confidence and a sense of identity.

In response to a question, Ms Shalders explained that the programme served both Maori and non-Maori students. She added that it was up to the programme facilitator to decide whether to hold part of the programme on the Marae, but that the cost of doing so was often prohibitive.

2.17 Open Home Foundation

Glenda Carnegie presented the application, along with Anna and Stephen Young, the 'House Parents' of the Richmond Open Home Family House. Ms Carnegie explained that the Open Home Foundation took young people into custody and guardianship if it was unsafe for them to live at home, either as a result of their own, or others' behaviour.

In response to a question, Ms Carnegie explained that Mr and Mrs Young received a flat 'bed night' rate from Child Youth and Family, but did not receive any funds towards the upkeep of the house, and providing clothing, school books and other equipment, or for events such as birthday parties for the children in their care, nor did they receive any wages as house parents.

2.18 Tahunanui Community Centre

Jo Lavington presented the application. She explained that the focus of the application was to extend the position of Community Development Facilitator, to continue to meet the needs of the Tahunanui community.

In response to a question, Ms Lavington explained the methods undertaken for engaging with the Tahunanui community. She added that the Tahunanui Community centre was currently a member of the Tahunanui Business Association, but that the Business Association did not as yet provide any financial support for the Community Centre.

2.19 The Nelson ARK Trust

Karen Howieson presented the application, along with Brenna, one of the graduates of The ARK programme. Ms Howieson said that the Trust worked with a small number of students, but that the effect of the Trust's work went much further in the community.

In response to a question, Ms Howieson and Brenna explained how both the students and the dogs involved in the trust helped each other to work through difficult issues.

2.20 Sexual Abuse Support and Healing (SASH) Nelson Incorporated

Mary Connor and Sinnet Frisk spoke about the work of Sexual Abuse Support and Healing (SASH-Nelson Incorporated), and gave a PowerPoint presentation (1378257).

In response to a question, Ms Connor explained that SASH focus was on women and children who were the victims of sexual abuse. She said that the organisation would refer male victims to The Male Room, and that the organisation also worked collaboratively with the Women's and Children's Refuge, with both organisations referring clients to each other.

Attendance: The meeting adjourned for lunch, from 12.48pm to 1.17pm.

2.21 Royal New Zealand Plunket Society Nelson Plunket Car Service

Kylie Matthewson spoke about Plunket's Car seat education programme, and tabled some of the resources utilised in the programme (1379784). She explained that a law change requiring booster seats for children was likely to occur in the future, and that Plunket hoped to assist parents through the law change period by having booster seats available to hire.

2.22 Parents Incorporated

Sandy Hitchens gave a PowerPoint presentation (1378271) and spoke about the Parenting Toolbox. She said the toolbox was able to be modified to suit parents in many different situations, and that the demand for the toolbox courses was growing quickly.

In response to a question, she confirmed that Parents Incorporated received Ministry of Social Development funding, and that any parents looking after children who were not their own were able to attend the courses at no cost.

2.23 One Day School

Caroline Hoar explained that the One Day School was an education programme for gifted children, and regularly worked with primary schools across the region, sharing resources with teachers. She said that the focus of the application was on providing a salary for a teacher.

In response to a question, she explained that the Ministry of Education did not directly fund the One Day School. She said that the school largely relied on fundraising and parents' fees.

2.24 Nelson Community Food Bank Trust

Mike Gibson spoke about the work of the Nelson Community Foodbank Trust. He said that funding was required to assist the food bank with rent and insurance costs, power bills, and shopping for food items that were not received as donated goods. Mr Gibson explained that food parcels were limited to six per year per family, and that records were kept to ensure that the system was not abused.

In response to questions, Mr Gibson explained that the food parcels contained food and toiletries, sufficient to feed the family for six days. He said that Sealords generously donated a large amount of crumbed fish, and that Quality Bakers generously donated a large amount of bread, but that there were not any other formal relationships with local food producers. He added that the Foodbank usually gave out over 100 food parcels a month, and that demand appeared to be increasing.

2.25 Workstar

Kirsty Glen explained that Workstar worked with anyone aged 16-65 who had a disability that was a barrier to employment. She said that Workstar worked with individuals with a wide variety of disabilities and needs, and said that there was a large demand for pre-employment assistance.

In response to a question, Ms Glen explained that Ministry of Social Development funding was only available for clients who required assistance for six months or more, whereas many of Workstar's clients required targeted assistance for a much shorter time.

2.26 KB4Girls

Aileen Shepherd spoke to the application. She explained the application was to support holding a workshop for female kitesurfers, which could potentially lead to larger events that would have a positive effect in the Nelson economy. She said that a small workshop held at Tahunanui Beach last year had attracted international media coverage through kitesurfing magazines, and Nelson had the potential to become a kitesurfing destination.

In response to a question, Ms Shepherd explained that she had initially applied to the events fund, but had been informed that a workshop would not meet the criteria. In response to a further question, she said that she was not aware of the Masters Games.

2.27 Broadgreen Society (Incorporated) Nelson

Mary Gavin and Helen le Cren presented the application. They explained that it was often difficult to roster volunteers on during the Christmas period, and the application was to cover paid staff during this time.

In response to a question, Ms Gavin and Mrs le Cren said that if funding for paid staff was not available, the Broadgreen Society would economise in other areas to ensure that Broadgreen remained open over the Christmas period. In response to a further question, they said that the admission fee was regularly reviewed, but that Broadgreen was also competing against other facilities, such as the Museum and Isel House, which were cheaper to enter, or free.

2.28 Nelson Special Needs Dance Group

Stu Allan spoke about the recently formed Nelson Special Needs Dance Group. He said that the group currently catered for around 20 families with disabled children, and was taught by Peta Spooner. He emphasised the lack of group activities currently available for disabled children, and the growth in confidence and motor skills that many of the children had displayed since starting the dance class.

In response to a question, Mr Allan confirmed that the group was applying for funding from a number of sources. He added that there was potential for the group to expand into an umbrella organisation that could focus on providing group activities for disabled children.

2.29 Bhutanese Society of New Zealand Incorporated

Chandra Dahal presented the application, along with other members of the Bhutanese Society of New Zealand Incorporated. He explained that the group represented 22 former refugee families, who often felt isolated, and that the group aimed to lessen the sense of isolation by retaining the Bhutanese culture and languages, and educating the Nelson community about Bhutanese culture. He said that the application focused on producing a fortnightly Bhutanese radio show through fresh FM, and on holding a Bhutanese festival.

In response to a question, Mr Dahal explained that the group had successfully applied for a small amount of Community Trust funding towards the Festival. In response to a further question, he explained that the group had a good relationship with the Nelson Multicultural Council, but that the Council was unable to host the Bhutanese Festival.

2.30 Nelson Tasman Cycle Trails Trust

Fiona Newey presented the application. She explained that the focus of the application was to work in conjunction with Nelson City Council staff to encourage and create an efficient stream of sponsorship and donations for a number of different projects.

In response to a question, Ms Newey said that she was not aware of the Nelson Bays Community Foundation. She added that she would like to see incentives for members of the public to invest in their own communities, for example, a small reduction in rates if money was invested into community projects.

3. Consideration of Applications

Councillors agreed that the meeting would reconvene the following day to consider the applications for Community Assistance funding. A brief discussion was held around the limited pool of funding available this year, and it was emphasised that it was important to provide sufficient funding to successful applicants to be able to achieve their contracted outcomes.

Attendance: Councillor Barker departed the meeting at 2.52pm

Councillors briefly discussed the staff recommendation regarding Kahurangi Employment Trust. In response to a question, Acting Executive Manager Community Services Mr Ball explained that the rating reflected discussions held at a senior staff level, and reflected the fact that Kahurangi Employment Trust had received Council funding through an Annual Plan grant, as well as some concerns about the financial viability of the Trust.

Councillors discussed the reasons why the Trust faced financial difficulty, and whether funding for the Trust was available from a different budget line. Mr Ball explained that he would bring further information regarding Kahurangi Employment Trust to the re-convened meeting the following day.

The meeting adjourned for the day at 3.15pm.

4. Consideration of Applications

4.1 Kahurangi Employment Trust

Executive Manager Support Services, Mr Kettlewell, joined the meeting and explained the staff recommendation relating to Kahurangi Employment Trust. He said that, given the oversubscription of the Community Assistance Fund, a view had been formed that any applicants receiving Council funding via alternative avenues should not also receive a Community Assistance grant.

Mr Kettlewell explained that the 'Tidytown' contract held by Kahurangi Employment Trust was not competitively put to tender. He said that the Trust was treated in the same manner as other Council contractors, and was expected to report back to Council on contractual matters.

In response to a question, he advised that Council separate the contracts that the Trust performed, from the social good that the Trust performed. He added that Council could decide to fund the Trust for its social good aspects, but that this should occur through a separate budget from the Tidytown contract, and should occur through the Annual Plan.

Councillors discussed the relationship between Nelson City Council and Kahurangi Employment Trust. It was agreed that Kahurangi Employment Trust should receive Community Assistance funding for one year, and that staff should also bring a report regarding the Trust back to Council.

Resolved

THAT staff report back to Council on mechanisms for defining the relationship with Kahurangi Employment Trust.

- Bridge Valley Adventure Centre – It was suggested that the applicant be encouraged to seek a sponsor for its leadership courses;
- KB4Girls – It was suggested that the applicant be encouraged to consider holding an event as part of the South Island Masters Games, and to look at the potential of holding an event that met the criteria for events funding;
- Broadgreen Society (Inc) Nelson – It was suggested that Broadgreen House be promoted further through Live Nelson.

Councillors also agreed that it was appropriate for 10% of the Community Assistance funding to be made available to applications for one-off grants.
